RANGERS GET ALL SOUTHERN COAST FIRES IN CONTROL

Every Outbreak in Vancouver Forest District Checked Now

Report of Settlement Burned Not Confirmed by Rangers' Reports

Forestry officials sought in vain to-day for confirmation of yesterday's reports that fire had swept out of the woods and had virtually destroyed the settlement of Granite Bay. Reports received by the forest branch of the Lands Department, on the contrary, indicated that all forest fires on Vancouver Island and the Vancouver forest district were thoroughly under control this morning. After a terrific fight on the part of hundreds of rangers, loggers and settlers, every outbreak has been checked in its progress. For the first time in weeks the forestry officials of the Coast are breathing easily to-day.

The situation in the southern interior of the Province, despite the lull in the hot spell and the falling of rain at some points, is still cause for keen anxiety.

MCGILL REUNION

Montreal, July 24.—The McGill Graduates' Society has plans under way for a reunion of its members and their families in the fall of 1926.

SAYS FOOD SUPPLIES AVAILABLE IF COAL MINERS STRIKE IN BRITAIN; A. J. COOK

London, July 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Federation, announced that plans had been made to feed the coal strikers if a strike should take place in Great Britain. This, it is understood, would be carried out with the aid of the co-operative societies, which promised to give the miners credit on the security of their own federation, and also on guarantees being made by other unions.

British Premier Will Make Effort Monday Next to Prevent Coal Strike

Representatives of Miners and Mine Owners to Meet July 29

London, July 24.—Premier Baldwin has consented to meet Monday a delegation of leaders of the Trade Union Congress of Great Britain. The congress previously had pledged its support to the coal miners, and requested a conference with Premier Baldwin in regard to the threatened strike.

TO MEET JULY 29
London, July 24.—Late this afternoon it was announced representatives of the British coal miners and mine owners would meet in a joint conference, July 29. This is the first successful move toward averting the British coal strike threatened to begin August 1.

CONFERENCES HELD
London, July 24.—Efforts to prevent the threatened coal strike in Great Britain continued to-day. Representatives of both the workers and mine owners conferred separately with W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, who is attempting reconciliation of their differences. After adjournment at noon it was announced the conferences of the two sides with Mr. Bridgeman would be resumed later.

PACT TO END JULY 31
The Miners' Federation has announced a strike to take effect August 1, the present working agreement with the owners expiring July 31. Every effort has been made to bring the two sides together, but the miners had previously refused to meet the owners unless the latter withdrew their proposed new agreement providing for reduced wages and substitution of an eight-hour day for the present seven-hour working period.

REPORT ON INQUIRY
The Government's court of inquiry, which has been investigating the dispute, has concluded its hearings and will present a report within a few days, and it is hoped this report may in some measure assist in bringing about a peaceful settlement.

MEN LOSE SUPPORT
While there is no doubt the miners possess the strong support of the workers in other industries, they have within the last few days lost considerable support, so far as the general public is concerned, by their refusal to accept a new agreement with the mine owners unless the latter unconditionally agreed to a strike.

Hon. Dr. King's western itinerary is not yet arranged, he notified the directors.

Accident Report From Melbourne Was Exaggerated

Melbourne, July 25.—First reports of collapse of the veranda of a theatre in Bourke Street, where crowds were watching a parade of sailors of the United States fleet yesterday, proved exaggerated when a check of hospital records to-day showed only seventeen detained and only one person seriously injured. It had been believed at first that more than a dozen were killed and hundreds injured. Fortunately, however, most of the injuries were slight. None of the injuries are expected to be fatal.

BARREAGE OF SHOTS SURPRISED JAMES VEITCH LAST NIGHT - AT SEVENTEEN MILE POST; EDWARD BARKER FINED AND WARNED IN PROVINCIAL POLICE COURT TO-DAY.

Disturbed by successive shots and a hail of bullets that punctured the walls of his house, James Veitch, a rancher of Seventeen Mile Post, on the Sooke Road, hurriedly called the Provincial police at 8 o'clock last night.

Constables Hatcher and Jacklin rushed to the scene. Edward Barker, thirty-two, a rancher staying at the Veitch residence was apprehended and charged with using an offensive weapon to disturb the peace.

Barker, allege the police, returned to the house after a visit to the city and secured a .38-calibre revolver. Stepping outside the house, it is alleged, Barker emptied his gun in through the windows.

Mr. Veitch was out of the place at that time, having gone on an errand to the garden. When the police arrived Barker submitted to arrest, according to evidence given in the Provincial Police Court to-day.

FINED IN COURT
Before Magistrate George Jay Barker pleaded guilty to the charge, and his counsel asked leniency, saying:

DEATH IN RIOT NOW LEADS TO MURDER CHARGE

Warrant For J. Macleod, Company Policeman in Nova Scotia Strike Area

William Davis, Coal Striker, Was Shot and Killed During Disorder on June 11

Sydney, N.S., July 24.—A warrant was issued this morning for the arrest on a charge of murder of Joseph Macleod, a British Empire Steel Corporation policeman, for the shooting of William Davis, a coal miner, in the New Waterford strike riot of June 11. The warrant was issued by Magistrate J. Smith on instructions from Crown Prosecutor Malcolm Patterson after a conference with the Attorney-General's Department.

Macleod suffered two fractures of one of his legs in the fight between the striking miners and corporation police, and is still in a hospital.

The decision to arrest Macleod follows one to drop the "John Doe" inquiry into the shooting which had previously been ordered and which was held as the result of a complaint made by the provincial police against an unknown person.

EVIDENCE WANTED
Crown Prosecutor Patterson defined out to-day that with a pointed charge laid, it would be possible to call witnesses, but that without the power to make them testify, it was

ALLEGED BANK BANDIT SENT FROM SEATTLE

George Rossi, Alias Stone, Held For Alleged Complicity in Robbery

Possibility of One of Eight Held Turning King's Evidence

George Rossi, alias Stone, one of the eight men held for alleged complicity in the Nanaimo bank robbery, of December 12 last will appear before a Police Magistrate in Vancouver to-day when a remand for eight days will be sought by the Crown.

After waiving further fight against extradition proceedings, Stone, or Rossi as he is called in the information, was taken from King County Jail last night by Inspector Foushee Cruikshank and a guard of provincial police to the night boat for Vancouver.

The prisoner was taken from the cells to the boat without incident, and though extra precautions were taken to guard him no attempt at interference developed. The authorities were made cautious by rumors that gunmen had gathered in Seattle with the declared object of attempting to liberate someone from jail there.

KING'S EVIDENCE
The remand asked by the Crown in the initial one, and it is likely Rossi will be remanded from time to time until the authorities are ready to proceed with his trial at Nanaimo. A feeling exists, though unconfirmed in official quarters, that one of the eight men held in connection with the Nanaimo affair is ready to turn King's evidence. Such a development would have a vital bearing on the case for the Crown, if it should occur.

WATER PUMPED FROM RIVER PREVENTED WIPING OUT OF TOWN OF SKEENA BY FIRE

Port Essington Fire-fighters Hampered When Regular Water Supply Cut Off; Blaze Which Ruined One-third of Town South of Prince Rupert Started in House of Japanese.

Prince Rupert, July 24.—About one-third of the town of Port Essington, near the mouth of the Skeena River and a few miles south of Prince Rupert, lies in ruins to-day as the result of a fire which broke out in the home of a Japanese resident.

The voluntary fire fighters were hampered in their efforts to subdue the flames by the fact that the water supply was cut off in some manner. Water, however, was pumped from the river. The Federal Government snag scow, fishing boats and other craft stood offshore and rendered what assistance was possible. The efforts made were successful in keeping the flames from the buildings of the B.C. Commercial Cannery Company's plant.

Some of the best buildings in the settlement, including many in the business section, were destroyed. The two heaviest losers are H. Kishimoto, in whose residence the fire broke out, caused by a faulty chimney, and whose store was destroyed, and J. Perkins, proprietor of the Caledonia Hotel. Other buildings burned were a poolroom, barber shop, the mess house of the B.C. Commercial Cannery, the B.A. Cannery office, a beer parlor and several dwellings, including the Kipp residence and a number of Japanese homes.

AIDED BY FRIENDS
Homeless Japanese, who take their losses philosophically, apparently being satisfied to have escaped with their lives, are arriving at Haysport to stay with their friends, bringing with them bedding, clothing and money in most cases.

The fire started yesterday afternoon. An estimate of the loss is available as yet.

MOTHERWELL NOW SPEAKS OF ELECTION SOON

Minister of Agriculture Says Appeal to People of Canada Near

Rail Freight Rates and Other Questions Will be Prominent

Moose Jaw, July 24.—Although he would not say whether Canada's next Federal general election would be held during the coming Fall, Winter or Spring, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, addressing a Liberal organization meeting here last night, stated his party leaders in Ottawa considered the time ripe to go to the country in an effort to secure a majority which would enable them more efficiently to administer the affairs of the nation.

The tariff, the Hudson Bay Railway question, railway freight rates, immigration policies, branch lines, amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, the Home Bank relief question and the unity of the provinces would be the outstanding issues of the forthcoming election, Mr. Motherwell predicted.

B.C. WILL FIGHT FOR CROW RATE ON WESTBOUND GRAIN

Government Claims Legislation Actually Provides For Low Schedules Westward

Oliver Denies C.P.R. Defying Railway Board in Filing New Tariffs

That Parliament actually has ordered by statute that British Columbia's grain movement be given low Crow's Nest Pass rates will be the central point in this Province's freight rate fight as soon as the Railway Board commences its nation-wide freight rate revision. This is the policy decided upon by Premier Oliver and G. G. McGeer, Government rate counsel, at their conference yesterday. It was made known officially to-day when yesterday's brief statement on the matter was explained more fully.

This Province's claim will be that in ordering equalization of freight rates Parliament provided for the same rates on westbound grain as on eastbound grain. As the eastbound

DEATH IN RIOT LEADS TO MURDER CHARGE

Useless to proceed with the investigation.

The New Waterford strike riot of June 11, in which William Davis, a miner, was killed, Gilbert Watson, a miner, shot in the abdomen and about thirty persons injured, including Joseph Macleod, the man now charged, followed the taking over of the New Waterford Lake power plant by British Empire Steel Corporation Police.

About 600 miners marched on the plant and recaptured it after a fight in which the shooting occurred. The plant was later recaptured by troops.

PICKETS AT SCENE

Previous to the corporation picket taking it over on June 11, it had been picketed for a week.

The coroner's verdict on the Davis shooting was that he had come to his death from a bullet fired from a gun in the hands of a corporation policeman.

SETTLEMENT EFFORTS

Sydney, July 24.—A full meeting of the Nova Scotia Government has been called for Monday in Halifax and the conference between the Government and the British Empire Steel Corporation and the striking coal miners of Nova Scotia, which was adjourned to-day, will not likely be resumed until Wednesday or Thursday of next week. It was announced this afternoon by Premier Rhodes.

The following statement was issued:

"Certain questions have arisen upon which the Premier desires to confer with his Government, a full meeting of the Executive Council having been summoned for Monday, July 27, at 11 a.m.

"It is not anticipated that the conference can be continued before Wednesday or Thursday next."

No further information was given concerning the negotiations, which had been in progress since Tuesday and in which, in addition to Premier Rhodes and Colonel Gordon Harrington, Minister of Mines, President Roy Wolvin and Vice-President McLurg of the corporation and the entire district executive of the United Mine Workers took part. Other corporation officials also were present.

LABOR M.P.'S URGE ECONOMY IN NAVY PLANS

During Debate of British Building Scheme They Will Oppose Big Outlays

Those Favoring Additional Cruisers Tell of Age of Present Craft

London, July 24. (Canadian Press Cable)—When the debate comes up on the Government's navy building programme, which Premier Baldwin announced yesterday, it will probably be declared the British navy at present does not compare favorably in numbers with those of other nations, including fifty-eight destroyers under twenty years old, 208 destroyers under sixteen years, and sixty-seven submarines under twelve years old.

Another point that will be advanced in favor of the present programme is that since 1918 only seven cruisers have been laid down, while an average of three and a half ships annually is necessary to keep the fleet up to date. Three hundred post-war ships of all classes have been built by other nations.

The Laborites intimate their intention to press for economy and to concentrate on the danger of a new armament race.

PLAN TO TRANSFER PUBLIC TELEGRAPH LINES ON ISLAND

Canadian National Telegraphs to Take Over Government Services Soon

Chamber of Commerce to Investigate; Inadequate Service Reported

Arrangements are in hand for the transfer of the Government Telegraph Services on Vancouver Island to the Canadian National Telegraphs, the Chamber of Commerce, directors were informed.

Alderman M. P. Blair stated that George Shead of Winnipeg, who is now investigating the proposed transfer on behalf of the Canadian National Telegraphs.

The matter was broached when a letter from Manager Frank Blashfield, of the local Canadian National Telegraphs, drew to the attention of the directors the fact that the Government telegraphs on holidays and Sundays, while George McGregor asserted that the service is unsatisfactory after 5 o'clock each business day.

The board considered this lack of service warranted action towards securing improvement, and appointed a committee to investigate.

ing that it was liquor which had been responsible for the man's condition, and that he had not shot with intent to do anything but "show off."

The court confiscated the gun and warned the offender to be careful of his conduct in future.

B.C. WILL FIGHT FOR CROW RATE ON WESTBOUND GRAIN

grain rates were specifically fixed on the level of the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement the westbound rates must be put on a similar basis. British Columbia will argue. Otherwise this Province will hold "equalization," as provided for by Parliament, means nothing.

In the meantime the British Columbia Government does not feel that the Canadian Pacific Railway has a right to put on a new rate tariff, filed with the Railway Board, commenting to-day on Vancouver newspaper reports that the C.P.R. had refused to obey the Railway Board's new instructions.

Oliver said: "I do not see anything in the nature of a defiance in the rates which have been filed by the C.P.R. with the Board of Railway Commissioners. The order of the board was that both the C.P.R. and the C.N.R. should restore the rates which were in force on July 8, 1924. Compliance with his order of the board does not constitute an act of defiance."

Vancouver interests are aroused over the C.P.R.'s new tariffs because they do not give Vancouver Crow's Nest rates on grain. As the Premier explains, however, the Railway Board's order did not require the filing of such tariffs. These matters of course, will come up for review when the board commences its general rate revision.

ditionally abandon their proposals for a new agreement. The owners had agreed to disregard these proposals for the immediate purposes of a conference, and the public view is that the miners are risking a fight over the mere question of the interpretation of the word "withhold."

OVER 1,000,000 INVOLVED

Between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 coal miners in Great Britain will go on strike if the notices sent out by the executive of the Miners' Federation to terminate the existing agreement between the miners and the mine owners is obeyed in all fields. These are the estimates both of the Miners' Federation and the operators.

NOTICES POSTED

So far the strike notices have only been posted in Southwest and West Yorkshire and South Wales, where the number of men employed in the mines is somewhere in the neighborhood of 400,000.

It is estimated the number of miners working in England, Scotland and Wales is about 1,500,000, with nearly 300,000 others already idle through the closing down of many collieries during the last two years.

Had fires are raging in the Revelstoke district, and every available man is being enlisted to fight the flames. A large outbreak in the Big Bend country is causing heavy loss in valuable white pine timber, and about 100 men are performing valiant feats in endeavoring to cope with it.

East of Revelstoke all efforts are being directed towards preventing the fire from destroying the water-shed which safeguards the city's water supply. The timber in this vicinity is parched like tinder, and the smallest spark is sufficient to start a conflagration. The entire area is now under a state of emergency, and at night the glow of fire and the spectacle of setting mountains ablaze is visible to Revelstoke residents.

JUNKS WERE BURNED BY CANTON PIRATES

Craft Loaded With Kerosene Made Spectacular Blaze; Foreigners Alarmed

Leaders in Canton Appoint Red Russians to Command Their Gunboats

Canton, July 24.—Red Russian commanders are being appointed by the present Canton Government heads to command their gunboats, the British consul-general declared to-night at the Canton Club. The appointments are being made, he said, by Hu Hon-Min, former civil governor.

Residents of Shamsen, the foreign concession in Canton, have been alarmed by reports that a number of junks loaded with kerosene, lying in the Pearl River, were set on fire by the pirates. It was said the junks had refused to pay the pirates the customary "squeeze." The fire caused considerable alarm, and it is hoped the junks are being moved to the city.

FIRST HONORARY MEMBER OF B.C. MEDICAL BOARD

Dr. George S. Milne Signally Honored by B.C. Medical Association

Dr. George S. Milne, veteran medical practitioner of Victoria, has the honor of being the first honorary member of the British Columbia Medical Association.

The following letter has just been received by Dr. Milne from Dr. H. H. Murphy, president of the B.C. Medical Association, from Kamloops:

"I have much pleasure in informing you that, at the annual meeting of the B.C. Medical Association held on July 3, you were unanimously elected an honorary member of the association. It is a great honor to know that pleasing references were made to your long and honorable medical career, and it was thought fitting that you should have the honor of being the first honorary member of the B.C. Medical Association."

Dr. Milne has practiced medicine in this city since 1886, and it is an organizer, with other medical men of that time, of the association, which was entrusted with the enforcement of the Act of the Legislature of 1886 that the present generation acknowledges his work. There was only a registration ordinance, dating from colonial days, when he came to British Columbia. The doctors set before them the passage of an act to give a definite status to medicine. After the passage of the Act, Dr. Milne was elected a member of the association, and he has since been a secretary and registrar. He is the only surviving member of the profession who had charge of the measure, which was passed by the Legislature of 1886. Charts of medicine in British Columbia.

CHAMBER PLANS NEW DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Achievements by Commerce Body Justify Appeal For Support, Directors Agree

"We have done enough to justify an appeal to the public for support in a campaign for members," declared President C. P. W. Schweigert of the Chamber of Commerce at to-day's directors' luncheon. Directors recalled success in obtaining a grain elevator, and the creation of a lumber assembly plant, now in course of construction with the building of ferry slips at Ogden Point. It was felt that such service fully justified an appeal for more members.

A committee was authorized to investigate and report upon the best time to make a drive for members. "We must have more public support or reduce our budget commitments for the next year."

Japanese Woman In Los Angeles Killed by Negro

Los Angeles, July 24.—A negro wearing a white mask shot and killed Mrs. Sui Shibuya, thirty-nine, and probably fatally wounded her husband, Tetsu Shibuya, forty-two, in an attempt to rob the Japanese couple's grocery store here last night. A third Japanese escaped injury by dropping to the floor when, without warning, the gunman opened fire on his victims after they had elevated their hands and he had begun looting the till. As he fled the killer scattered bills and small change over the

FENG OPPOSES CHINA TARIFF CONFERENCE

Peking, July 24.—The vernacular newspapers report that General Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian general," has communicated to the Government his opposition to the proposed tariff conference. He is of the opinion China should have complete tariff autonomy, declaring it is against the principles of equality of nations for other nations to fix China's tariffs.

Several days ago the Japanese and Germany's joining this organization as a move of great importance.

North Vancouver Mill Destroyed

Vancouver, July 24.—Fire last night destroyed the main plant, the lath mill and a large part of the platform and 100,000 feet of dressed lumber of the North Vancouver Sawmills Limited, on the north shore of Burrard inlet, causing a loss estimated at approximately $120,000. The fire is believed to have started in the boiler room.

The home of A. W. Wallace, Rice Lake Road, North Vancouver, was completely destroyed by fire last night, along with its contents.

Sydney Entertains Men of U.S. Fleet

Sydney, Australia, July 24.—The United States consuls in Sydney and Melbourne were entertained for some time getting in foodstuffs for the thousands of sailors Uncle Sam's big ships have brought to the Commonwealth. They bought fish by the 10,000 pounds, cabbage by the 20,000 pounds, milk by the 1,000 gallons, ice cream by the ton and bananas by the 10,000 pounds. But one item was absent from the official list. There is no beer in the menu. Sydney, however, was the first "wet" port the fleet struck, and as the "Old Scotch" is plentiful at about 15 cents a glass and beer costs only 10 cents, the sailors are in luck. The fleet is especially an Australian can't bear to see his guest pay for his own drinks.

"Seen any mysterious strangers around here lately?" inquired a detective from the city. "Well, stayed the village, there was a feller with a circus last week who took a pair o' rabbits out o' my whiskers."

BIG FLOOD LOSSES IN AUSTRALASIA

Great Areas in New Zealand Under Water; Farmers in Australia Suffer

Special to The Times
Auckland, New Zealand, July 24.—The floods in the Whakaiti district are the most serious ever experienced. Vast areas are submerged, the Rangitiki Plains being converted into an inland sea. The losses of stock are very heavy, especially in pigs. One farmer, when only an acre of his land remained above water, had to watch 200 of his livestock swept away. Many families have been saved by Maoris using their canoes.

AUSTRALIAN LOSSES
Sydney, Australia, July 23.—Wheat and meat, of which Australia and New Zealand contribute so much to the world's larder, have been lost in enormous quantities through the recent floods, which were the worst for a generation. After Victoria's wheat stocks had been seriously depleted by the appearance of a plague of countless millions of mice, floods which have lasted weeks have destroyed the maize crops of the Murrumbidgee area in New South Wales, and caused heavy losses of stock. One farmer saw four acres of his holding swept away with all it contained, though he was somewhat consoled next day when the flood waters deposited six acres of rich soil along his river frontage.

RIFFS' PEACE MOVE BRINGS NO ANSWER

French Government Pays no Heed to Abd-el-Krim's Terms as Published

Officials Say Riffians Making Effort Because French Army Growing

Paris, July 24.—The French Government, it is asserted, will take no official cognizance of the alleged peace terms of Abd-el-Krim, the Moroccan war-lord, as published yesterday in a London newspaper and The Paris Quotidien, organ of the parliamentary majority in the Chamber of Deputies. "At the Foreign Office the comment on what was termed 'Abd-el-Krim's peace drive' in both London and Paris was that France cannot entertain any proposals tending toward cessation of hostilities in Morocco unless they are transmitted through the proper diplomatic channels, and that the Riffian chieftain was aware what peace terms France would accept, as he had been officially informed on this point through Spanish official channels ten days ago. Much suspicion, however, is being officially expressed on the part of French official circles yesterday as to the alleged peace terms published in London and Paris. Recent reports of weakening among Abd-el-Krim's supporters and the reports that the French army in Morocco soon would be sufficiently strong to start an offensive to crush the rebels caused the belief in these circles that the Riffian leader might be ready to talk peace.

JAPANESE PROPOSES ARMS CONFERENCE

Chautauqua, N.Y., July 24.—Count Michimasa Soyeshima, a member of the Japanese House of Peers, proposed a second international conference on the limitation of armaments in an address here yesterday at the Chautauqua Conference on International Relations from the Christian point of view. The conference is under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches.

The count also urged repeal of the Japanese exclusion provision of the United States Immigration Act, which he said a section of the Japanese people feel is a "studied insult." "A nation-wide mobilization, naval manoeuvres on a gigantic scale almost eclipsing all the real naval struggles in history and other causes of conflict are to be seen in some parts of the globe," he said. "If the powers continue arming as they are to-day there will be another world war, which will be followed by a world-revolution and the end of civilization."

Christians throughout the world were asking that the United States join the World Court and renounce its conference. Dr. Archibald Chisholm of Glasgow, Scotland, told the conference in an address.

U.S. FLEET GOLFS BEING ENTERTAINED BY AUSTRALIANS

London, July 24.—The London Daily Mail's Sydney correspondent says many people in Australia are uncertain regarding the propriety of offering alcoholic liquor to the members of the United States fleet now visiting Sydney and Melbourne. An interesting exchange of messages on Wednesday prior to the arrival of the United States warships might be considered fairly significant.

One of the New South Wales golf clubs sent the following radio: "The fleet golfers are welcomed to our bunkers and nineteenth."

The reply was: "Hearty thanks. Will do our best with both hazards."

ANOTHER COAL STRIKE

things may happen before the end of the month, it begins to look as if the coal miners of Great Britain will once again treat themselves to another holiday until the difference of opinion which separates them from the employers can be bridged by a new wage and working-conditions schedule. The operators emphatically declare that the present rate of pay and number of hours worked can not be continued because profits have disappeared and nearly five hundred mines have ceased operation in consequence. The miners are adamant in their determination to resist any reduction in wages or increase in the hours of labor. The general public, which patiently waits and watches between the upper and nether millstones of these economic disputes, is becoming alarmed because Britain's exports of coal, originally the basis of her prosperity in the industrial and financial world, are fast decreasing.

It is thus not a pleasant prospect which faces the people of the Old Country. True, former coal strikes have not caused the dislocation which had been expected, their duration being comparatively short and their effect largely neutralized by preparations made during a long period of previous discussions and warnings. But the fact remains that each time an embargo is put upon the export of this commodity markets are lost. Foreign importers are either learning to do without British coal or else, as is the case in most of the continental European countries that have been heavy buyers of "black diamonds" from Britain, the development of electrical energy removes previous dependence upon the more antiquated form of generating power. So in pressing a strike, notwithstanding the fact that the lot of the coal miner is a hard one, the employee is pursuing very doubtful tactics if his action, while possibly preserving privileges dearly won, is merely to reduce the importance of the industry as a payer of wages and a contributor to the nation's trade.

LIQUOR IMPORTS

FIGURES PUBLISHED IN
 The Times on Wednesday convey some impression of the size of liquor imports that come to the private individuals of British Columbia. It is only necessary to quote one period to disclose the nature of the Government's competition in a field which is quite distinct from the field in which the export warehouse operates.

From April 1 to December 31 last year the Province brought in 238,701 gallons and private shipments, on which duty was paid and the liquor cleared according to law, amounted to 115,095 gallons. This takes no account of the liquor which is brought in by the export warehouses in bond and shipped—out again to "foreign parts." No duty is paid on this stuff and there is no record of the amount imported for re-export. But it is possible to speculate upon these shipments after noting the fact that in the period under review the amount imported by the individual was practically half the total number of gallons purchased by the Government for sale under the Liquor Control Act. Part of that no doubt went into the cellar of the law-abiding citizen and a still larger part undoubtedly reached the "small man" who—though content with less profit—with the export warehouse, is competing with the Government illicitly.

The figures shown, still more striking when it is remembered that there is no official record of liquor which reaches here in bond and is not cleared in the Province, illustrate the difficulty with which the authorities are faced in their task of trying to carry out the wishes of the people and control the traffic. For if the known imports to the private individual amount, as indicated by the return cited above, to practically half the volume of the Government's purchases, it is not reasonable to suppose that the imports of the export warehouse, supposedly for distribution outside the country, are at least equal to or even greater than the official and individual imports combined?

This is the condition which Senator Green and Senator Barnard, in line with the Conservative majority in the Senate, consider is in the public interest. This is the condition which they could have helped to improve by attending the debate in the Upper Chamber and voting in accordance with the wishes of the people of British Columbia. Instead of doing so, they absented themselves, firm in their conviction that the persuasion to which they had succumbed had completely captivated their colleagues, and took a course of action which is approved only by bootleggers, hijackers, and gun-slingers.

TREASON!!

THE TIMES HAS RECEIVED from The Montreal Star News Feature Service a picture of the Canadian girls' athletic team which left Montreal last week for England to participate in the international athletic meet to be held in London on August 8. In the foreground, proudly held by members of the team, is the flag which was won by Canada's world champion hockey team at the Olympic games in 1924, and was loaned to the young ladies to carry on their present trip. It is the Canadian ensign, with the Jack in the corner and the Canadian arms on the fly. The girls also have the word "Canada" and the maple leaf worked on their sweaters. Surely all this must be high treason. Ought we not to have a resolution or two from somewhere protesting against this sinister attack upon the solidarity of the Empire and in the very heart of it, too? Dayton, Tennessee, should not be allowed to win the silly season championship without a struggle.

FRIENDLY GESTURES

WHETHER THE AP-prehensions of the people of Australasia are real or imaginary as far as they are related to what is frequently, and often loosely, described as the Oriental menace, the visit of the United States fleet to Antipodean ports and the pleasant interchanges which the event permits will be interpreted by the Australian people as a friendly gesture from another branch of the English-speaking family which occasionally manifests a similar uneasiness from the same cause. This invisible pooling of a common sentiment in respect of this particular question, to say nothing of the cordial relationship which exists between that part of the British Empire and our neighbor to the south, strengthens the tie which binds all the elements of the Britannic Commonwealth to a people that speaks the same tongue and enjoys the freedom of similar institutions. Apart from the sentimental point of view, however, Australasia is a good customer of the United States and as mutual understandings expand in the non-economic sense it is to be supposed that American capital, in the same friendly way as it has already invaded Canada, will branch out in the Antipodean Dominions and assist, with British capital, in their development. In any event the visit of Admiral Coontz, who is no stranger in this city, and his war vessels is being warmly appreciated by the Australasian people.

TOO BUSY TO BET

THE VANCOUVER SUN offers one more interesting reason why the people of the Mainland are not as keen on betting at the race tracks this year as they were last year. Its argument, obviously sound, follows:

Last Friday, total wagers at Hastings Park were $96,501. On the corresponding day, last year, wagers totaled $118,637. Why the drop? The reason is that Vancouver's curve of prosperity is turning upward. Primarily gambling is the product of two things, spare time and the desire to recoup losses. A town that is busy making money legitimately has no time to bet money on horses. Gambling is at its peak when the curve of prosperity begins to turn downward. Then it is that people rest on their oars, waste time and trust to Lady Luck.

Vancouver to-day is not looking for easy money but for consistent prosperity. There are plenty of cases of the gambler's last throw in British Columbia. And it is astonishing how many people who can not afford it, and know they can not afford it, will work themselves into a frenzy and lose their money at a race track and then feel hurt if the tradesman is not inclined to extend credit indefinitely.

AN APPEAL TO KNITTERS

To the Editor:—Now the holidays have come again will our many kind friends remember our sailors and knit socks or sweaters for them? Jack is rather hard on his socks and we are always in need of them. Mrs. Bunbury, wool convener of the Ladies' Guild for Sailors, 1613 Elgin Road, will supply wool and receive socks with gratitude.

HEALTH & DISEASE

QUINCY

Quincy is an inflammation of the throat, followed by the formation of pus between the tonsil and the deep tissues of the neck. It usually occurs in patients who have had several attacks of tonsillitis. Predisposing causes are found in septic conditions of the mouth and teeth and purulent discharges of the nose or ear. The attack may follow ordinary tonsillitis and is ushered in by feeling chilly and miserable. Fever accompanied by an acute pain behind the angle of the jaw extending up to the ear and neck follow closely. Soon swelling becomes increasingly difficult; thick, tenacious mucus collects in the throat and the breath becomes offensive. The mouth is difficult to open except for the fraction of an inch. If you can look into the mouth, you will see a large red swelling just back and to the inside of the jaw; the tonsil being pushed almost past the middle line of the throat. The patient should be put to bed and the throat kept clean by douches of warm water to which a little baking soda has been added. The affection is very painful, but certain relief is only obtained by opening the abscess. There should be no hesitation in having this done in view of the painful and debilitating nature of the disease and sometimes the serious complications which infrequently occur.

FIRE DEPARTMENT TO ACQUIRE FIRE NEW MOTOR TRUCK

One of the most modern machines manufactured, thought by expert mechanics to be the finest fire fighting weapon that any city can possess, a five-and-a-half-ton American La France truck of Canadian manufacture, arrived in this city yesterday, and will be used by the department for fighting fires in the district. A giant of speed and power, painted in gold and red, with nickel trimmings, this new addition to the fire fighting apparatus of the city is a proud possession of the department.

Although it has not been formally accepted by the civic authorities, and will not be until it has passed its tests, which are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, the truck has the appearance of being in every way satisfactory.

The machine was taken for a trial spin over the Island Highway last night, and carried several passengers to the annual banquet of the Victoria District Fire Association. On the homeward trip the car showed its speed and power on the hills.

FEATURES OF TRUCK
 This truck is the last word in fire fighting machinery. A six cylinder engine, 120-horse power, capable of a speed of fifty miles per hour when fully loaded with hose, ladders and fire crew of seven, it is the average of trucks used by the majority of departments. It carries 1,500 feet of 2½ inch fire-hose and 300 feet of 1½ inch hose. Its cost, delivered at Victoria, is $15,000. It is equipped with the Westinghouse starting and lighting system, and a feature of the machine is the huge searchlight on the front of the car, worked from the driver's seat, which casts a 1,500-foot beam.

An outstanding feature of the car is its pumping machinery. It is specially equipped for work in high levels, where there is poor water pressure, but its guarantee insures the power necessary for fighting any blaze.

EXACTING TESTS

The engine will be subjected to exacting tests tomorrow, supervised by Provincial Fire Marshal Thomas, Chief Vernon Stewart, a representative engineer of the Fire Underwriters' Association and others. The test will be made at the Evans, Coleman and Evans dock at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The car was built in Toronto. V. H. Brown is the coast representative of the builders, with headquarters in Vancouver. It is a product of the American La France Fire Engine Company.

ROBERT SCOTT SAID TO BE ON WAY TO CHICAGO

Scott showed no interest in rumors that his brother was on the way here. Judge David set the sanity hearing for August 3.

SECOND ESCAPE

Chicago, July 24.—Russell T. Scott early to-day escaped the gallows here for the second time within a week.

The former Canadian financier, twice reprieved from paying the supreme penalty for the murder of a Chicago drug clerk in a holdup, escaped execution less than four hours before he was to have been hanged, when Circuit Judge J. D. Davis granted a stay of execution pending a hearing on his sanity.

SPECIAL COURT SESSION

A week ago, six hours before he was to be hanged, Governor Small of Illinois granted a special session of court, which expired this morning. Judge David, called out of bed a few hours before the time for the execution, convened a special session of court, and granted the stay after Governor Small and the State Board of Pardons and the State Board of Pardons had refused morning at Springfield had refused.

SAID FAREWELL

Scott, escape from death to-day, like that of a week ago, came after he and his relatives had virtually abandoned hope. Thomas Scott, his father, had just appeared before the Board of Pardons, and when the stay was granted, was rushing from Springfield to Chicago by automobile to bid her husband farewell. She arrived to find the court action stopping the hanging.

NEWS SURPRISED HIM

Scott, who had been surly and defiant throughout the night and who apparently was completely resigned to his fate, received the news that his life had been spared at least temporarily with nothing about the last-minute appeal to the court.

CASE CAREFULLY CONSIDERED

In announcing last night that the Illinois Board of Pardons had refused further clemency, Governor Small said:

FROM BULLS AND BEARS TO LIONS AND LEOPARDS

Charles W. Beall with one of his pets, "Prince."

By GEORGE BRITT

NEW YORK, July 23.—I'd rather associate with my wild animals than with some of the men I meet and do business with.

These are the words of Charles W. Beall, senior vice-president of the Wall Street investment house of Harris, Forbes & Co., who has the unusual hobby of collecting and training animals.

He owns one of the largest private menageries in America, including three elephants, three lions, two tigers, six leopards, one jaguar, six bears and two moose. A few months of the year he lets them be placed on exhibition, but most of the time he simply keeps them for his own interest.

Many of the things he has learned from wild animals are a help in dealing with men, Beall admits. From his conversation can be gathered a good handful of maxims which are almost applicable to financial bulls and bears as to animal training. For instance:

"As soon as he steps into the cage, the trainer must be master. He must put up a brave front, for if he shows fear he is through. There is no question but that lions and tigers have the power to overcome any man whenever they choose. They do not realize that, and he bluffs them."

"The trainer always must out-guess his animals and think ahead of them. If the lion is going to attack, the trainer must attack first. He must know what the lion is going to do before the lion knows it."

"Some lions are what professional trainers call 'bouncers.' They jump around, roar and show their teeth but never cause real trouble. Others are silent and morose, always watching for a sign of yours which they can take advantage of. They are the dangerous ones."

"Some men haven't what is called 'animal sense.' They never can do anything with animals, no matter how they try."

U.S. SAILOR SAYS HE KILLED MAN

But Seattle Police do Not Believe Details of Lloyd H. Hudson's Story

Seattle, July 24.—Lloyd H. Hudson, twenty-year-old sailor on the United States ship Arizona, was held here to-day following his alleged confession to Captain of Detective William E. Justus that he had killed Charles Earl Anable, Seattle rent car driver, early yesterday.

Captain Justus said Hudson had told him he killed Anable because of a slighting remark the rent car driver made concerning Mrs. Hudson, his eighteen-year-old bride, on July 11.

Mrs. Hudson, when located in an apartment here, denied the police Anable had insulted her. Mrs. Anable, widow of the chauffeur, told the police to-day her husband did not work on July 11. Police said they believed the motive was robbery.

Anable's body was found early yesterday in an isolated spot near Port Lawton.

public utility finance. In 1920 President Wilson appointed him a member of the Federal electric railway commission.

"A man has no prestige in the eyes of an animal," Beall says. "Animals born in captivity who are used always to the sight of men have even less respect for them than those from the jungle. If a trainer is in a cage of lions and he slips, it is nine chances out of ten that they will leap at him with murder in their hearts. I very seldom have seen any show of affection from animals."

"The story of Androcles and the lion is just a myth, I think. It is based upon the mistaken theory that wild animals can be domesticated. The best animal friend I have is a leopard which we call 'Beauty.' I can feed her raw meat with my hands. I can take her out of her cage and she will go to sleep in my lap. But she still is a leopard."

"Not long ago I saw a lion which I had helped to train. I had not seen him for a year, but he remembered. He came up to the edge of his cage and let me pat his head. But that was very unusual."

"My footwork is getting a little slow for animal training, and in that respect business is a better field. In business your body may become fat and stiff, so long as you keep a young heart and a quick mind."

year-olds and up, $250—Little Abe, won; Black Pat, second; Lady Edmonston, third. Time, 1:02.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 23.—Favonien, owned by Mrs. Fred Edman, defeated by Etta Drullen at Toledo, last week, reversed the order of things in yesterday's 2:02 trot. On the strength of last week's victory Etta Drullen was made the favorite although Favonien had won over her early in the season at North Randall.

Favonien, driven by Edman, took the first two heats but gave way to Etta Drullen in the final mile. In each of the heats this pair fought it out all the way around but the Edman horse was able to stand off the eastern mare at the finish. The three heats were won under the lash with the big crowd watching itself into frenzy.

The prisoner was notorious as a local character for evasion of the truth. It was a fairly plain case, but the magistrate was puzzled when the prisoner said he wanted to plead guilty. "He has been prepared for a long and involved chain of untruths," "John," he said, after a moment, "I shall have to have more evidence before I sentence you."

North—"Are you in favor of women taking part in public affairs?"
 West—"It's all right if you really want the affairs public—New York Sun and Globe."

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kamble

SATURDAY, JULY 25
Although an active and eventful day is promised from the major side real mutations, yet it will not be without its hazards and perplexities. A disintegrating astral force may precipitate some sudden change, removal, or journey, and while new projects are under a benefic way, yet there may be some slight setbacks or postponement. Extraordinarily careful manipulation of affairs in hand may turn critical situations to advantage. Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a fairly exciting year, with possibly some unexpected change or upheaval. With care and warning from unsettled conditions and hazardous situations. A child born on this day is likely to be restless and unsettled and may find its mind changeable and erratic. It should be given early training in concentration.

FINE PROGRAMME BY MME. FAHEY AT CONCERT TO-NIGHT

Popular Soprano to Sing For Summer School; Open to Public

Much interest has been created in the vocal which Mme. Lugrin-Fahey is to give this evening before the Summer School, to which the general public will be admitted for a nominal charge. The concert is to be given in the auditorium at the Victoria High School, which it is anticipated will be filled for the unique occasion. Mme. Lugrin-Fahey has chosen some of the most delightful numbers from her extensive repertoire, and the programme will include sacred music, excerpts from grand opera, some charming old ballads, and several of the newest songs by well-known composers. In detail the programme is as follows:

LADY BYNG LEFT TO-DAY FOR EAST
Concludes Unofficial Stay on Island With Visit to Cumberland

After spending the past ten days on Vancouver Island on a purely private and informal visit, Lady Byng left Nanaimo to-day for Vancouver en route for the East. She had been the guest of Col. Villiers at Cumberland for the past few days. Lady Byng remained at Cowichan Lake, as the guest of Mrs. Dunsmuir, until Friday last. While there she paid several visits to the lovely gardens of Dr. and Mrs. Stoker, and secured many rare plant specimens. She also collected a number of wild flowers and plants for her English gardens. From Cowichan Lake Lady Byng, accompanied by Miss Sanford, Col. Moore, Capt. Chaplin and her gardener, drove to Cumberland. En route they visited Messrs. Matthews' farm at Westholme, where Lady Byng was greatly interested in the sweet peas in which they specialize. The party made a brief halt at Nanaimo, and then proceeded to Cumberland, where Col. Villiers greeted them.

TAG DAY FUND FOR MEMORIAL AVENUE

Street Appeal To-morrow to Assist in Beautification of Avenue

In an effort to secure funds for the beautification and upkeep of Memorial Avenue, a tag day will be held in the city to-morrow. The undertaking has been stimulated by the Chamber of Commerce and actively supported by the Rotary Club, and the following ladies, wives of Rotarians, are in charge of the street collection: Mrs. T. R. Myers, Mrs. J. Adams, Mrs. John Wood, Mrs. Lester Patrick and Mrs. B. Scurrell. Memorial Avenue is that section of Shelburne Street which was planted with trees a few years ago in commemoration of the men who gave their lives overseas during the Great War. General R. P. Clark was at the head of the committee which sponsored the undertaking. To-morrow's appeal is for the purpose of creating the nucleus of a fund to ensure the proper care of the avenue. The headquarters for the day's collection will be at the Melrose Company's store, kindly placed at the disposal of the ladies' committee for the occasion.

DR. J. MCGREGOR MARRIED TO NEW WESTMINSTER GIRL

Marriage Wednesday of Son of Jubilee Hospital Chairman; to Reside at Duncan

New Westminster, July 24.—A wedding of interest to many residents of this city and Victoria took place Wednesday evening in Queen's Avenue United Church, when Edith Florence Mercer, fourth daughter of Mrs. W. E. Mercer, 277 Ninth Street, became the bride of Dr. J. McGregor, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George McGregor of Victoria.

A large arch massed with pink roses and sweet peas and ferns, under which the bride party stood, featured the decorations of the chancel. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. H. Nuttall. The wedding music was played by Mr. Herbert Mackness, and during the signing of the register Mrs. A. Moffatt sang "Ecstasy." The bride, who was given away by Mr. W. J. Burr, made a striking picture in her wedding gown of white French flat crepe and bridal veil held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and Lily-of-the-valley relieved with touches of greenery.

Miss Elsie Mercer, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of apple green French flat crepe fashioned on straight lines, and a large hat trimmed with French flowers. Her shower bouquet was composed of pink carnations, sweet peas and snap dragons. The little flower girl, Miss Kathryn Mercer, wore a pretty frock of peach de Chine and a bandeau of silver leaves, and carried a basket of sweet peas. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Frank McGregor of Victoria.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Mercer, who wore a gown of navy blue georgette crepe, received the guests. Mrs. McGregor, who assisted the hostess in her duties, wore a gown of rust colored satin. Mauve and pink sweet peas were used as decorations in the rooms, while in the dining-room pink and white streamers and pink sweet peas decorated the table which was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Later in the evening Dr. and Mrs. McGregor left on a honeymoon trip to the South, and on their return will take up residence in Duncan, Vancouver Island. For travelling the bride wore a smart ensemble suit of rust and grey shades and a French felt hat.

French Canada Celebrates Its History

June 24th of every year is the great day of the French Canadian. In every city and every hamlet of Quebec Province and in the cities and centres of the New England States and in those parts of Ontario and the West where he has migrated St. Jean Baptiste Day is never overlooked. It is well that it should be so and it introduces into Canada an Old-World seventeenth century atmosphere that Canadians as a whole could ill afford to lose, either actually or historically. Our pictures show some interesting features taken from floats exhibited on this occasion. There is the harlequin 17th century farmer defending gun in hand his crops which his father and women folk are reaping. The children on their way to school watch the housewife baking her bread in the old-fashioned oven which is still in extensive use in Quebec Province. The making of maple sugar, an industry developed from the researches of Dr. Sarrazin in 1685, is yet another popular float which always figures in the celebrations.

The trial of John T. Scopes for teaching the doctrine of evolution in defiance of a law passed by the Tennessee Legislature has attracted so much attention from the newspapers that up-to-the-minute authors are producing expositions of Darwinism in book form in the hope of reaping a golden harvest from the general public. One of these volumes is by Henry Fairfield Osborn and bears the striking title, "The Earth Speaks to Bryan." Another author, Dr. J. I. Brown calls his book "Evolution Explained." The publishers say to the American public in their advertising, "If you want this book, order it quickly before Mr. Bryan has it suppressed."

In "Fragments of Auld Lang Syne," Mrs. Frank Russell, an English writer, tells this story of how Lord Strangford's wit enabled him to get out of an awkward box. "One evening when he left the House of Lords he went into the Athenaeum Club, and a friend asked him whether there was anything interesting going on the House of Lords. "Nothing particular," he replied. "Soapy Sam was speaking when I left."

Another member in the room sprang to his feet and exclaimed indignantly: "I'll trouble you to speak more respectfully of my brother, the Lord Bishop of Oxford, sir."

"Oh, my dear sir," replied my grandfather, "I meant no disrespect whatever to the good bishop. Quite the reverse. I always understood that sobriquet was bestowed upon your distinguished brother because, though always in hot water, he invariably comes out of it with clean hands."

Here is a story of the Carlyles, told Mrs. Russell by Mrs. Midway, a well-known figure in London society:

"She described Mrs. Carlyle as a vain woman, who liked to engross conversation, and also was fond of telling long-winded stories. When she began to talk, her husband used to look across the table and say, 'Tricky, my dear, tricky!'"

"Mrs. Carlyle was fond of improving conversation, which did not suit Mrs. Midway, who had no wish to be improved. One day they were sent out driving in a small pony-carriage along a somewhat dull road, and Mrs. Midway thought, 'Surely Mrs. Carlyle won't find anything to quote poetry about here!' Just then a goose crossed the road, and Mrs. Carlyle began, rolling her 'r's':

"Of all the birds that skim the air The goose should be preferred; There is so much such nourishment In that weak-minded bird."

An English literary weekly announces that Major-General Sir Ernest Dunlop Swinton, K.C.B., has been elected Chichele Professor of Military History at Oxford University for five years, in succession to Mr. Spencer Wilkinson. Sir Ernest is one of the most brilliant of short-story writers of modern times. Under his famous pseudonym, "Ole-Luk-Oie," he wrote that fine war story, "The Green Curve." He is now working on Mr. Lloyd George's stupendous history of the War, and is doing much delving among the records in the cellars of various Government departments. He was the first official war correspondent on the Western Front, his dispatches being signed "Eye-Witness." An authority on military history, he is the author of the second and third volumes of the official history of the Russo-Japanese War.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION
 Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestion in such cases may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from a few ounces of Bismarck's Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bismarck's Magnesia is a harmless to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. (Adv.)

LITERARY NOTES
 Maurice Hutton, for many years Professor of Greek and Principal of University College, Toronto, has blossomed into authorship in his old age with the publication of "The Greek Point of View" (Hodder & Stoughton, Toronto). In this book Professor Hutton discusses the distinctly Greek point of view in politics, ethics, art and religion. These are not dry-as-dust lecture notes, but very human essays written by a man who is first of all interested in life and who loves to make witty comparisons between the ancient Greek way of looking at things and our modern views on similar subjects.

A hard-working and voluminous poet of our day is Mr. Alfred Noyes. He is at present writing on a big subject, the pioneers of science. The second volume of this work, which carries the general title, "The Torch-bearers," he calls "The Book of Earth," and it celebrates the achievements of scientists who have devoted themselves to the study of the earth and its history. Noyes is a geologist. He takes as typical representative Pythagoras, Aristotle, Leonardo, Linnaeus, Larmarck, Goethe and Darwin; introducing incidentally many others, such as Pascal, Buffon,

RUSSIAN STOKERS FORMER OFFICERS IN IMPERIAL ARMY

General Merkloff and Madame Merkloff Accorded Ovation at Dockside; Empress of Asia Clears on Time, Despite Delays.

Off to Yokohama on schedule time, despite a five-day handicap on her last loading in the Orient, the R.M.S. Empress of Asia cleared at 7.30 p.m. yesterday with a 4,000-ton cargo and a new crew.

Portuguese, Russians and volunteer helpers who worked the ship over on her last trip in are being taken back.

Included in this group are mercantile clerks from the office of Hongkong, in response to the difficulty created by the strike of the Chinese crew at Hongkong, where 500 deserted the ship.

An unusual scene was enacted at the docks last night when General Merkloff, former commander of the white army in Russia, and Madame Merkloff bade farewell to Russian members of the crew who had worked in the stockhold on the way over. Those, in most cases, were formerly high officers in the Russian Imperial Army. In parting they saluted the General and kissed the hand Madame Merkloff extended to them.

A number of the Russian officers had served under General Merkloff in the stirring days when the White army strove to stem the advancing hordes of the Bolshevik forces.

In addition to a light passenger list the Empress of Asia carried a good general cargo of Canadian products, including lumber, spelter and flour.

Travel to South Is Maintained

Capacity loads both ways were experienced by the Admiral line Alexander boats touching here yesterday. The Emma Alexander, Capt. H. E. Halvorsen, made port at 9.30 from the South, and sailed for Seattle at midnight. The Dorothy Alexander, Capt. G. A. Harris, cleared outboard at 12 p.m., with another large passenger list. Travel, reports W. M. Allan, local agent for the line, is being steadily maintained at the high peak set at the opening of the tourist season.

The President McKinley of the Admiral-Orient line will sail outboard on Sunday at 5.30 p.m., Capt. Alvin O. Lustie in command. The President Jefferson of the same line is due in on Monday, but no word has yet been heard from her master, Capt. F. R. Nichols, as to what time he will dock.

BRIDGE AT SYDNEY

NOW BUILDING TO COST $25,000,000

Ford Assembly Plant Completed; Cost $15,000,000

Distribution Plants Planned at Each Capital City

The commencement of work on the $25,000,000 bridge that is to connect Sydney to its North shore and details of the new Ford factories in Australia were brought on the Ss. Aorangi last night by passengers arriving on that ship.

W. Kither, prominent in the service of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, with headquarters at Sydney and now en route to Toronto, Ont., and Akron, Ohio, in the interests of his firm, states the giant Sydney bridge will be completed within five years. It is being carried out by the firm of Dorman, Long and Company, British engineers, and will supply a much needed connection between the city and the north shore settlement.

Henry Ford's new assembly plants in Australia, stated Mr. Kither, are definitely sanctioned now, and will be completed within the year. Upwards of $15,000,000 was recently spent in equipping and perfecting distributing and body manufacturing plant, located at Geelong, Victoria. In addition to this there will be built a distributing plant at every capital city in the Commonwealth.

The reason for the Ford construction, it is stated, was on account of the high duty on imported bodies, amounting in the case of the Ford car to almost 100 per cent. In the neighborhood of 50,000 cars are absorbed by the Australian market each year, and one half of these come from the Canadian factory of the Ford interests, stated Mr. Kither.

The Ford expansion in the Commonwealth has been greeted with acclaim on all sides, he concluded, as a practical expression of faith in the industrial recovery of the country after many years of depression.

The Goodyear tire interests have three factories in Australia, two located in Victoria and one in New South Wales. Mr. Kither is en route to the headquarters of his firm with a view to obtaining the latest information on distribution plans.

GERMAN TOYS

Seattle, July 24.—With about 1,500 tons of general cargo from Baltimore and other Atlantic ports, the Isthmian Line steamship Chattanooga City is due here to-day. The Chattanooga City will shift to Vancouver to load cargo for the United Kingdom, then return July 30 to take on local offerings.

Bringing several hundred tons of German toys for the coming holiday trade, the German motorship Isis arrived here Thursday. NEW ZEALAND WOOLLEN GOODS FINDING MARKET

Farm Laborers and Domestic Help Two Classes of Immigrants Most Sought

The development of a first class home market for New Zealand woollen products was told by W. Parsons, prominent sheep raiser of the North Island, on arrival of the Ss. Aorangi last night.

Tweeds of excellent quality are now manufactured from the wool at Waingapu, on the West Coast of the North Island, states Mr. Parsons. For the past two years the manufacturers have been encouraging a home market, with the result that the entire output is now absorbed in New Zealand, and expanded is intended to meet the needs of the growing concern.

There is vital need of immigrant farm laborers in the Dominion, contended Mr. Parsons, who was of the opinion that the present class of mechanically minded immigrant was not the right type for the Dominion. He stated that the Dominion and farm help were the two main requirements of the labor market, and there was a great need for speeding up of the influx of both classes.

Of late years a movement towards thoroughbred stock had been general throughout the sheep raising, and great improvement has been shown as a result, stated Mr. Parsons. Hereford cattle and Romney sheep are most in favor on the ranges of the North Island.

There is a real market for Canadian goods, he thinks, founded on the Imperial preference policy of the B.C. Dominion. British goods were first sought, and only where the supply did not meet the demand did buying extend beyond the Empire. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons will return with the Ss. Aorangi when she sails outboard again.

Funeral services were held this afternoon over the remains of Capt. Edward McCoskrie, a veteran mariner, who passed away at Prince Rupert on July 19. Rev. F. H. Gosse, Capt. Hickey, Capt. Anderson and Arthur Lee.

The late Capt. McCoskrie was born in Gloucestershire, England, seventy-three years ago, and had been a resident of Canada for forty years, spending thirty years in British Columbia. He made his home in Victoria for many years while in the service of the C.P.R. before he came to the coast where he has been harbor master for some years past. He is survived by his widow.

GIANT MOTORSHIP MADE FINE RUN FROM ANTIPODES

Ms. Aorangi Averaged Better Than Seventeen Knots for Trip; Madame Galli Curci Was Passenger From Auckland to Honolulu.

From Australia and New Zealand with 440 passengers and between 2,000 and 3,000 tons of cargo the Ms. Aorangi, of the Canadian Australian line reached quarantine at 4.45 p.m. yesterday and docked after her berth at the Outer Wharf had been vacated by other craft.

Capt. R. Crawford reported a fine passage with an average speed of over seventeen knots an hour. By curious coincidence the huge motorship was delayed in berthing due to congestion at the docks in precisely the same manner as on her last arrival here.

Her cabin list included 210 first, 120 second, while 100 were in the steerage. Coffee and Hawaiian pineapples for Victoria, wool, hides, tallow, frozen mutton and a large general shipment were included in her cargo holds. The Ms. Aorangi cleared for Vancouver at midnight.

Prominent on board were Sir Joseph Carruthers, leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Council of New South Wales, en route to London, England; Lady Weldon, returning to England on a pleasure tour of the world; H. M. Napier, well-known Clyde shipbuilder, who is returning from Australia after a visit in connection with construction work in that country. Mrs. Napier accompanied him on the trip, and both are now en route to Glasgow.

Madame Galli Curci, famous soprano, joined the ship at Auckland for Honolulu, where she gave a recital. Her manager, J. Slater, departed at Vancouver on the ship, en route East in connection with future plans of the vocalist.

Dr. Herbert Parks Barton, president of the Clara Barton Hospital, Los Angeles, returned from a two-months' voyage taken in the interests of health and departed here en route for Los Angeles.

E. Stott, connected with the engineering firm of Dawson, Paine and Elliott, London, is returning to England after a business trip to the Antipodes.

The scene at the Outer Docks was busy on last night. The Empress of Asia sailed outboard at 7.30 p.m. off on scheduled time on her run to Yokohama.

The Ss. Hanna Nielsen, berthed behind the Isis, cleared immediately and after for Genoa Bay to take on a cargo of lumber there. Two Canadian Government Mer-

San Francisco, July 24.—The second vessel in the recently established monthly freight service between San Francisco and the Far East by the T.K.K. Line, the Ss. Kaituma, arrived here Thursday to take on cargo for Oriental ports. This vessel, the Ss. Kaituma, will complete its cargo at northern ports and cleared for Portland.

From the Hawaiian Islands have increased 100 per cent. during the past twelve months, since the Oceanic Motorship Carriaco was placed in the triangular run between Hawaii, San Francisco and Portland, official of the General Steamship Corporation, agents for the vessel, say.

On her second voyage, the freighter Maunaloa sailed yesterday for Honolulu. This vessel is one of the four freighters with which the Matsun Line is establishing a cargo steamer sailing from this port on a weekly basis.

The steam schooner Johan Poulsen, which has been engaged in the coastwise lumber carrying trade, will be a number of years, was purchased outright Thursday from the Port Lumber Company for $11,000. The sale was conducted by the United States marshal.

Ask Aid to Get Breakwater For Sidney Harbor

W. H. Dawes and J. Cochrane, of the Sidney Board of Trade, this afternoon appealed to the Victoria Chamber of Commerce for support to proposals for protection of Sidney harbor.

Mr. Dawes pointed out that a breakwater was built years ago, but has been destroyed, and Hon. Dr. King has expressed willingness to consider replacement. He outlined schemes for protection, and favored construction of a rubble seawall, 500 feet long, at a cost of $28,000, which he believed could be lessened.

An many of eighty-five island launches have harbored at Sidney at one time, Mr. Dawes pointed out, and the growth of trade with the island justified the appeal for harbor protection.

President Schwenger agreed that a strong tendency was growing in the islands to trade with Vancouver, fostered by good steamship service, and believed Victoria would gain by better Sidney facilities.

Mr. Dawes recalled that "storm conditions were a severe handicap to development of the islands trade, much damage being done on occasion. President Schwenger suggested inquiry into possibility of improving communications with the Gulf Islands, and George McGregor pointed out that if the island Princess ceased the profitless journey between Sidney and Victoria, the time required for the forty miles would enable a great improvement. A special committee was struck to inquire into that aspect of island trade, while another committee will secure information whereon to co-operate with Sidney in securing Federal construction of a breakwater.

TITLES BILL IN BRITAIN APPROVED

London, July 24 (Canadian Press Cable)—The bill to prevent trafficking in titles, which already had been passed by the House of Lords, was given second reading in the House of Commons to-day.

In the course of the debate on the bill to-day, Labor members urged that honors and titles should be abolished altogether.

Captain Wedgwood Benn, Liberal, favored abolition of hereditary honors. He said Britain should follow the example of the Dominions with regard to honors. He instanced the Australian rule that no honors should be given unless a resolution in favor thereof was passed by the State Legislature concerned.

CUSTOMS HOLD SHIP

Work of unloading the Chakawana proceeded at the Marine Department wharf here this morning. According to George R. Norris, in charge of the work for the Customs Department, some 1,100 sacks of liquor are alleged to have been found on board. The ship, gear and cargo meanwhile are held for an alleged infraction of the regulations.

Frank Higgins, K.C., acting for the owners and mortgagees of the vessel, is in touch with the Customs Department to-day in relation to the seizure. The full extent of the seizure has not yet been ascertained as opening and rechecking the sacks will follow. The Chakawana was seized by H.M.C.S. Armentieres Tuesday. She is an auxiliary sailer of sixty foot length and some thirty tons burden.

B.C. CRICKETERS EXPECTED TO WIN

"Rep" Team Well on Way to Another Victory Over Saskatchewan Players

Regina, July 24.—When the teams adjourned for lunch to-day British Columbia was well on the way to another win in the inter-provincial cricket tournament. The Manitoba vs. Alberta game was in an interesting position with a win for Manitoba not at all unlikely.

Saskatchewan players all out before lunch for sixty again, were easy victims of the British Columbia bowlers with Rivers as before, leading the offensive. He added five more Saskatchewan scalps to the nine he took on the last occasion, the teams met and they coast him but thirty-two runs.

British Columbia has scored 27 runs for the loss of Eaton-Shore wicket, and have but thirty-two to get with nine wickets in hand, a task that appears simple for that strong side.

In the other game Alberta were out to Manitoba for 80, a low total in the circumstances for which the snappy fielding of the Manitobans was responsible. They got three men dismissed Johnson with a sensational catch. Manitoba has not yet batted, but a win for them this afternoon will make the game between them and British Columbia to-morrow the decisive one for the championship.

CHAMBER WILL GIVE WELCOME TO THORNTON

President of Canadian National Railways Will Arrive Here on August 7

The Chamber of Commerce will officially welcome Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, when he arrives in Victoria for a four days' visit from August 7 to 10 inclusive. President Schwenger suggested a tour to Port San Juan should be arranged; E. Tomlin advanced the proposal that the Marine Department be invited to place the Ss. Estevan at the disposal of Sir Henry Thornton for a personal trip along the coast.

"If we do not concentrate upon railroad construction beyond Sooke, Vancouver will get in through Nanaimo," said B. C. Nicholas. A committee will be struck to prepare concrete proposals.

WOMEN APPROVE FLAG RESOLUTION

Vancouver, July 24.—The Grand Lodge of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association of British America, in session here last night, passed a resolution dealing with the Canadian flag. It makes "a solemn and vigorous protest against any flag but that which the immortal General Wolfe carried at the Plains of Abraham and for which 65,000 sons of Canada laid down their lives in the Great War."

AT THE THEATRES

MIX DISPLAYS INGENUITY IN HORSEMANSHIP

"Riders of the Purple Sage," the Fox motion picture based on Zane Grey's novel now showing at the Capitol Theatre, brings Tom Mix back to the West after his successful tour into merrie England as Dick Turpin.

In this latest picture, Mix outdoes himself in the originality and ingenuity of his feats of horsemanship. Tony, of course, does his share of the work. Mix is supported by a cast including Mabel Ballin, Marian Nixon, Wilfred Lucas, Warner Oland, Beatrice Burnham and Harold Goodwin.

MAIL CLERKS CONSTANTLY STUDY COLLIER FINDS

Constant study is demanded of railway mail clerks in order that they keep thoroughly conversant with the routing of mail. So William Collier Jr. learned in playing his part of Terrence O'Brien in "Loyal Lives," all week at the Playhouse.

In this part Collier was called upon to act as a railway mail clerk and was put to work in a railway mail coach, along with experienced railway mail clerks who were borrowed from the post office to insure correct portrayal of the scene.

"Did you know that railway post clerks have to keep studying all the time to hold their jobs," was Collier's query when he finished his work in the coach scene. "Neither did I! But they do. Every week or so they get a bulletin almost blanketed size giving a complete list of the changes in post office stations and changes in train routes. They must learn every one of these and know them. Every month they get an examination, and if they fail to pass with a good grade, they are discharged."

PHILLIPS PLAYS IMPORTANT PART IN GOLDWYN FILM

He has appeared in many recently released productions, among which are "Through the Dark," "George Washington Jr.," "Flapper Wives," "Women Who Give," "The Plunderer," and "The Nth Commandment."

BUCK JONES SAYS HIS HORSE KNOWS NO FEAR

A scene that involved great peril will be seen in Buck Jones' latest William Fox production at the Columbia Theatre to-day. The conclusion called for Buck to rescue the beautiful heroine, played by Carol Lombard, from possible death in the path of a landslide.

A blast of dynamite was set off near the top of the mountain, starting a veritable avalanche. The cameras were ready to grind and just as the huge boulders bounced across the path Buck dashed through them astride his beautiful horse Silver Buck. It would be impossible to make such a scene, says Buck, except with a horse that knows absolutely no fear.

CHANGED THE RECORD
What's her particular grievance against her musician husband? She complained that when they were first married he played only love songs. Now he sits at the piano for hours reeling off death marches and dirges.—New York Sun and Life.

MOTOR DEALERS HELD PICNIC AT DEEP COVE

Annual Outing Proved Most Enjoyable Affair; Excellent Sports Programme Staged by Automotive Staffs.

A most successful picnic was held by the Victoria motor and accessory dealers at Deep Cove yesterday. With ideal weather prevailing one of the finest outings held in the history of the automobile men of the city was staged.

The large party of motor dealers, their wives, friends and employees were transported to Deep Bay by cars early yesterday morning and when the last carload of merry passengers had been brought back to the city last night all voted it a splendid picnic.

A fine sports programme was staged, keen competition featuring all the events. After supper the merry throng joined in dancing until late in the evening.

In the baseball game played between the winners of 1924 and the present managers of the different garages the latter team won out by the close score of 4-3 after a hard battle.

Great excitement reigned in several of the novelty events. In the tug-of-war which was the feature event of the day the team, captained by Walter Revercomb, succeeded in carrying off the prize. In the ladies' tug-of-war Mrs. Wallace's team had no trouble in winning.

Frank Moore showed his heels to all in the fat men's race, while Eddie Newman was second. In the 100 yards handicap for mechanics H. Wallis was the winner with "Kid" Morley second.

The members of the association who were in charge of the affair were as follows: President, Arthur Brown; secretary, H. E. Bayley; treasurer, W. Moore; chairman of committees, A. E. Humphries; prizes, W. Revercomb; announcer, Frank Moore.

The winners of the sports were as follows:

Boys' race, five years and under—1, Frank Mitchell; 2, Alex. Wilson; 3, Walter Shurnuff.

Girls' race, five years and under—1, Enid Bates; 2, Betty Stoddard; 3, Nora Kindersley.

Boys' race, seven years and under—1, Jimmie Tillyer; 2, John Tillyer; 3, A. J. Brown.

Girls' race, seven years and under—1, Marie Thomas; 2, Evelyn Back; 3, Doreen Webb.

WILLIS PATTER, LIKE SON—Here are two members of the Bryan family who fought to uphold Tennessee's law that bars the teaching of evolution. Liberalism and the West

Eventually Canada Will Return to Two-party System With Prairie Provinces Strongly Established in the Liberal Ranks; Some Present-day Difficulties.

By The Times Parliamentary Correspondent

The well-tried Liberal Party and the well-tried Conservative Party used to be fixed habits with the Canadian electorate in the far-off days before the war. Habits are always hard to break. It is a real wrench for the Canadian electorate to think of its politics to-day in any way but the well-established and thoroughly respectable pre-war way; and the two great political parties have felt the cold shock of new conditions just as acutely. The settling down process is long and painful.

How are the Liberal and Conservative parties growing, adjusting themselves to the entirely new conditions that have followed the upheaval of the war, the change in this country's entire economic system? That question is very important to the Canadian people—the Liberal and Conservative parties it is all-important.

To examine them in the order of their present strength, the Liberal Party has had to contend in the last five years with a series of bewildering problems. Beside them the problems that faced the Liberal Party under Laurier might almost be called minor difficulties.

In the first place, the Liberal Party has suffered acutely from the sins of its predecessors. The evil that governments do lives after them. Under a decade of Conservative rule from 1911 to 1921—with the exception of the days of the Union Government, when everything but the war was forgotten anyway—the West was steadily nursing those grievances which were unleashed in the political volcano of the last election. Sick unto death of Eastern domination, high tariffs at their expense, big eastern industries fattening on the high prices which they paid, the prairie men rose up one man and declared that there should be an end of these things. The net result was a farmer party solid from the Great Lakes to the Rockies.

A big part of the prairies is still in that same frame of mind. It is not willing yet to accept a compromise with the East, although compromise must be the working basis of any country with interests so diverse as Canada's. Thus the Liberal Party, which logically should get the large bulk of Western support, has had practically none. The Conservative Party had all the fun of its great political upset, and the Liberal Party is getting the hang-over.

Fortunately for itself, but more fortunately still for Canada, the Liberal Party did not forget the West, which had turned it down and play entirely into the hands of the East, which had elected it. Leaders of the Liberal Party, despite terrific pressure from within and from without, refused to let the party become a mere West full Cabinet representation, realizing that the future of Liberalism in the West, that the sentiment which found its thundering voice in the Progressive revolt is Liberal sentiment, though it does masquerade now under a different name.

The Progressive Party realizes that, too. Talk to any of the leading Progressives at Ottawa and you will find that they regard themselves as the true Liberal Party, the school that the Government, and the Government thinks of them in the same way. The Progressives are not separated from the Government by broad principles—as they are from the Conservatives—but only by the application of those principles.

The problem before the Liberal Party is to capture this Liberal sentiment, which at present marches under the Progressive banner. If this union could be accomplished, the Liberal Party would be united for the first time since the bewitching power of Laurier held it together. What a driving force this country would have then!

A HOPEFUL SIGN
The Liberal Party reached out rather gingerly at first towards the West and the Progressives would not come half way. This caused a reaction on the part of the Liberal Party back towards the East where Liberal support was secure. Lately, however, the Liberal Party has turned again to the West as it must do. And this is the most hopeful sign in the whole national situation.

But it is no easy thing, this, for a government to do. From the standpoint of the nation's welfare no government can afford to sidetrack the interests of the East and concede everything to the West; it cannot even adjust affairs so rapidly as to cause turmoil to the existing industrial system. From the standpoint of practical politics no government can afford to cut itself loose from the big bulk of its supporters. Suicide in politics is always a doubtful process.

THE LARGER PROBLEM
There are even more important national considerations than this in the Liberal Party's policy. The harmonizing of Quebec with the rest of Canada, the breaking down of the French province's traditional isolation, the creation of a new bond of understanding between the French and British peoples—this is a work upon which the future of Canada will largely depend. Liberal policy which gives Quebec a real understanding, an appreciation of the West, and the West a real understanding and appreciation of Quebec, could solve a problem which Canada has inherited from its earliest days. Conversely, a policy—no matter what party adopts it—which gives everything to the East or everything to the West would not be merely dangerous. It would contain all the seeds of disaster for Canada as a nation. It is easy to split a country like Canada in half; to weld it together, despite racial and economic differences, is a mighty task. The Liberal Party knows that task to-day. It has already gained the confidence of the East. Now it is turning to the West, forced into isolation by a decade of Conservative eastern policies.

A half hour in Premier Mackenzie King's office high up in the New Parliament Buildings convinces one that the head of the Government is thoroughly alive to these things. "Canada," the Premier told the writer the short time ago, "unquestionably is going back to the old party system. There are clear indications of it already." The West, he predicted, would not give permanent support to a minority, sectional party, which the Progressive Party has become. And he added the prophecy that even in the next election the Liberal Party would cut well into the Progressives' territory. That would be the start of a movement which promises great things for Canada.

(The next article of this series will describe the changes which are altering the whole complexion of the Conservative Party.)

England for the first time during next concert season.

An interesting local feature is the "augmented" orchestra, during the present week at the Coliseum. After all a violin, a piano and drums is a very small affair. It is hoped the management will make the augmentation a permanent institution. It must be pointed out, too, that seldom anywhere are more clever, versatile and exhilarating performances witnessed in the movie house than are given at this local theatre. The "Pirates of Penzance" this week is an example, and fellow citizens should recognize the fact, and become aware that in our very midst lie talent, production and performance which deserve not only hearty support and encouragement, but can be accepted by everybody as the equal, if not better, than many a distant field of music and light comedy.

Monteverdi's opera, "Ulysses," first produced in 1641, was recently revived in Paris. The score of this work, supposedly lost, was accidentally discovered in the National Library at Vienna a little over twenty years ago.

Sir Henry Wood, the famous conductor of the Queen's Hall Symphony Orchestra, London, is visiting Los Angeles, and will conduct four concerts at the celebrated Hollywood Bowl. His visit there came about in a most unusual but interesting manner. One Sunday afternoon, Mrs. J. J. Carter, the optimistic manageress of the Bowl's concerts, wrote a note to Sir Henry, in which she stated she would esteem it a very great favor if he could arrange to come to Hollywood and conduct some symphonies and other works by an American orchestra under the stars of California. Evidently in this case the pocketbook did not contain the great magic. This call from the "Voice of Hollywood Bowl," democratic and idealistic, so like the spirit of his promenade beloved by everybody, brought back a cable acceptance. Sir Henry has not been in the United States for over twenty years, and has always refused every offer, however flattering, to conduct one of America's big orchestras. These concerts at the "Bowl" may be considered the West's greatest musical achievement, and on the seventh of the present month commenced its fourth season. Ethel Leginska, one of England's greatest pianists, will also conduct on several nights. It is noticed with regret that not one of Great Britain's composers is represented in the many programmes. Perhaps Sir Henry will use his influence in this direction, and bring about the inclusion of some British works in future "Bowl" programmes.

The Fourth Biennial Convention of the American National Federation of Music Clubs was held last month at Portland, Oregon. The attendance was the largest and the most representative so far held. One of the chief things discussed at the convention was the Education Bill, which provides a Bureau of Music within the Department of Education. This was enthusiastically endorsed, as was also the Bacon Bill, which sets forth plans for the establishment of an American National Conservatory of Music. Some echoes of the speeches and addresses made during the convention are well worth while, timely and illuminating, and are as follows:

"Jazz is the absence of better music." "The hardest person to convince that music has any other value than just a thrill is the hard-headed and hard-hearted business man." "The average editor is just beginning to realize that the average reader is interested in music."

"You never saw a mob led by a band—and you never will." "Put up the leisure time of our young people with music, and they will be too occupied to get into trouble."

"Church music is—or should be—the highest expression of that which is sovereign in the soul of man."

"What is needed more and more is to make schools realize the greatest there is as much mental training in counterpoint as in trigonometry."

"The words of songs are the important thing, while the music only gives wings to the poetic text."

"Teach a boy to blow a horn and he is too busy to blow a safe."

Pity melts the mind to love.

Find your Camp after dark with an Eveready

WHEN fish are biting best at sundown the temptation is to stay just a little longer. Then comes the paddle or tramp home with a load of fish, tackle and lunch basket. It is sure to be tough going if you are not equipped with a powerful Eveready flashlight to light up the way. One stumble over a log or against a rock may mean a broken leg, spoiling your whole vacation. Why take a chance? You need a light for night use around the camp; why not take the safest and most convenient light made. No matches or oil to start fires, just press the switch and the light flashes on. Take extra batteries to ensure plenty of light. Go to electrical, hardware, sporting goods, drug stores and garages for Eveready flashlights and batteries.

Research Work To Cure Diseases Gives Great Hope

Edinburgh, July 24 (Canadian Press Cable)—Dr. J. T. Glover, formerly of Toronto, now of New York, is given credit by Dr. James Young of the Edinburgh College of Physicians with having reached results in his cancer investigations similar to those reached by Dr. Young, who in 1921 first described what he regarded as the cancer microbe.

Further investigations, Dr. Young states, have convinced him of the accuracy of his earlier investigations and he says the same results were also reached by Dr. Glover in Toronto in similar investigations, although the conclusions in both cases were reached with incredulity.

Dr. Young says the ultra-microscopic virus discovered by Dr. Gye and Dr. Bernard is probably identical with his own discovery. He believes also that this new research work may eventually lead to the discovery of the secrets of such diseases as smallpox, measles and influenza.

RIDING TO RICHES IN TOY LINERS!

Pasadena Boys Make $10,000 a Year by Sales of Model Ships They Build

Roscoe Good (left) and his brother Wallace, with one of their ships.

Pasadena, Calif., July 25.—They're riding to fame and fortune in toy boats of pasteboard—and they're both under twenty-one years of age!

"They" are Roscoe and Wallace Good, aged twenty and nineteen, respectively.

Their toy boats are exact models of big ocean liners and giant dreadnaughts, and the sale of them is netting the lads an income which will enable them shortly to build real ships and become real kings of the marine world.

BUILT IN A GARAGE

In the back yard of their home is a dilapidated garage which is their workshop. There they fashion the little ships that are eagerly bid for by big steamship lines throughout the country.

The death of their father spurred them on their path. Before that they had made their ships more for the fun of it than anything else.

But when he died they began to build them on a larger scale.

THEIR OWN BUILDING

Presently, they expect to build a two-story building, leasing the ground floor and installing their workshop above.

From that as a beginning they aim to branch out to different summer resort sections, erecting hotels and eventually—though not at first, of course—building their own steamers to carry passengers back and forth.

The model ships, they believe, will provide enough revenue to make this possible.

And they may well be right, for their income now averages around $10,000 a year.

GERMAN SECURITY NOTE IS STUDIED

London, July 24.—Germany's reply to France's note outlining the observations of the Allies with regard to the Western European security pact proposals has been thoroughly studied by the foreign department experts of the three countries directly concerned, France, Great Britain and Belgium.

London now is awaiting a communication which it is learned French Foreign Minister Briand has sent to the French Ambassador in London, outlining the deductions made by the French Foreign Office after a careful examination.

Despite all the criticisms of the German reply, it cannot be doubted the impression created on the whole is favorable. In France, where many of the press comments have been written in a more or less ironical tone, there is an admission that Germany's attitude is conciliatory and hope for a satisfactory outcome is entertained.

In Great Britain most of the comment is based on gratification that Germany evidently is anxious for a settlement and framed her reply in a manner to encourage hopefulness.

A MODERN JEKYLL AND HYDE

Arrest of Parisian Doctor Reveals Story
Wildier Than Stevenson's Fiction

By MILTON BRONNER

Paris, July 25.—Weeping in his cell in Marseilles while the police pile up against him charges of murder, robbery, attempted poisoning and other serious crimes, Pierre Bougrat to-day means for the French public the living embodiment of R. L. Stevenson's Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

By day Dr. Jekyll was an honored and highly respectable physician. By night he became Mr. Hyde, possessed of a fiend and given to all kinds of devilish deeds. By day, Dr. Bougrat, one of the most skillful physicians in the great sea-port town of Marseilles. His fellow doctors honored him as a great practitioner. Veterans of the World War honored him as a soldier doctor who had served all through the war and who had been wounded in action six different times. Fashionable clubs and the most exclusive circles welcomed the immaculately dressed, witty, urbane man of the world.

By night the police now say he was a different person.

He sneaked away from his sweet-heart and went into the lowest slum of the town. Vile cabarets knew him. He took part in wild orgies. He fought with the Apaches for the favors of dizzy blondes.

Dr. Bougrat made large sums of money in his practice—the rounder Bougrat spent even larger sums.

Dr. Bougrat medically treated rich women patients—the rounder Bougrat is now alleged by the police to have robbed them of money when injections made them unconscious.

Dr. Bougrat numbered among his patients his old fellow officer and comrade-in-arms, Jacques Rumebe—the rounder Bougrat now stands charged with murdering this same Rumebe, robbing him of several thousands of francs and then hiding his body in a cupboard in a wall, hidden by thick wall paper.

And he might have gotten away with it. If the police had not been about to swear out a warrant for Rumebe's arrest. For Rumebe was a collector for a big Marseilles firm. When he failed to return with about eight thousand francs of their money the firm notified the police. Dr. Bougrat, interviewed, spoke in the highest terms of his old friend. But he let drop the hint that Rumebe, a married man, had probably run off to Lyons with a mistress. It was a former valet of "Bougrat's" who gave the police their real clue. He recalled seeing Rumebe, come to Bougrat's house for treatment. He remembered the doctor saying he had a patient lying unconscious on a sofa. He said the doctor locked the door and told the valet not to disturb the patient.

The valet said he peeped through the key-hole and saw a man lying prone on the sofa. He never saw the man again. But he did notice a bad odor days later in the room. The police swooped down on the house and discovered the decomposed body of the missing man.

Bougrat at once made a long statement. The substance of it was this: "Rumebe came to me and said he had lost 3,000 francs he had collected for his firm. If he could not restore this sum, he was a lost man. I promised to get it for him and made him wait in my office. When I returned I found him lying dying on the floor. He had swallowed some of the poison I keep in my office. I lost my head. I thought if I did not find the sum Rumebe said was missing the authorities would never believe my story. They would think I killed him for money. So I hid the body, thinking I would drag it out and reveal it as soon as I got the necessary 3,000 francs. But I failed to get the money and the more time elapsed, the more frightful was my situation. I didn't know what to do. Then came the police and my arrest. I am an innocent man with all appearances against me up to the present."

Bougrat's friends have already outlined his possible defence. One of his worst war wounds was in the head and his skull had to be trepanned. They say it has affected his brain and made a changed man of him. He was Dr. Jekyll. He is Mr. Hyde.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Crutch

Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis)

When Uncle Wiggily awakened in his hollow stump bungalow one morning, he thought he would hop out of bed, have his breakfast and go off in the woods to look for an adventure. But no sooner did he try to get up than he felt such a pain in his back that he fell into bed again.

"Oh, my rheumatism! My rheumatism!" he groaned. "I shall have to go hopping along on my red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch—to-day. Hello, somebody—everybody!" he shouted. "Will one of you please bring me my rheumatism crutch? I can't walk without it!"

Uncle Wiggily waited a moment, but there was no answer. Nor was there any sound of some one bringing his crutch to him. Then, all of a sudden, the bunny gentleman remembered that his wife and Nurse Jane had gone away early that morning to buy some things at the market for over Sunday. They had left Uncle Wiggily asleep in bed, for he had said he did not want to get up early.

"And I suppose all my forty-seven little bunnies are out playing, so none of them is here to bring me my crutch," thought Mr. Longears. "If I am to use it I shall have to hobble downstairs and get it myself."

"Do you mean your crutch?" asked a Squigglybug.

Well, he grunted and groaned and moaned, but at last he managed to get down the stairs, one at a time, and, painfully, he hopped across the hall to the umbrella rack near the front door, where he kept his crutch. But the rheumatism helper wasn't there.

"That's funny, where can my crutch have gone to?" said the bunny out loud.

"Do you mean your red, white and blue striped crutch?" asked a Squigglybug, which lived in a crack of the bungalow floor.

"That's the crutch I mean, little Squigglybug," said Uncle Wiggily, gently rubbing his back with one paw. "Have you seen it?"

"I saw Nipper and Skipper taking your crutch out a little while ago," buzzed the Bug. "They said they were going to take it to the meadow and use it for a tent pole. They are going to put up a tent and play."

"Oh, dear," sighed Uncle Wiggily. "Then I suppose I shall have to go to the meadow, even if my rheumatism does hurt, and get my crutch."

"I would go after it for you, if I could," offered the Bug, kindly.

"Thank you, but you are too small," said Uncle Wiggily.

SERIAL STORY "THE LOVE CYCLE"

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

The second result of Marlowe's death was the bringing to light of his clandestine affair with a woman who called herself Mrs. Sabin.

It was the woman Jane had seen helping her father into a cab that snowy Winter night, nearly two years before. This affair had lasted longer than the rest and had been far more serious. Marlowe had lavished money upon her and so great had been his infatuation that when he was ill or in some other way unable to get to her, he entrusted Weston with his messages and gifts. The latter neither approved nor disapproved openly, because he saw not only a weapon to hold over Marlowe, but also an opportunity to dip deeply and without question into Marlowe's personal funds.

It was at the house of Mrs. Sabin that Marlowe had his fatal attack. Several times before he had undergone the same thing only less acutely. The first one he had experienced the night Jane had seen him supported to a cab between Weston and the unknown woman. Since then his doctor had warned him but he had scoffed at admonitions.

Death came quickly to him. He was brought home barely in time to have his wife and daughter at his bedside when his spirit passed. Mrs. Marlowe wept bitterly. Here was the shallow grief which finds quick succor in tears. Not for her the white lipped silence, the stony-stricken gaze with which Mrs. Mansfield had gone through the early period of her widowhood.

Before morning Mrs. Marlowe had become herself again. She gave a glance to the mirror, uttered a little shriek and sent the maid flying for Eau de Cologne to bathe her reddened eyelids. The shops were barely open at 9 o'clock when she dispatched a message to her modiste and milliner. By noon, the smartest mourning procurable was being displayed to her in the privacy of her sitting-room. With complete calmness she arranged the details of laying away the mortal remains of Jordan Marlowe.

It was a fashionable funeral and Marlowe's widow was beautiful in her weeds. She went down the church aisle, leaning on Weston's arm, a frail, blond, exquisite little creature with a becoming paleness and great wistful eyes. Jane followed her, looking absurdly childish and not at all pretty in her simple black.

There was one other mourner, whom few of the vast congregation which had come to pay their last respects to Jordan Marlowe, knew.

She slipped into the church inconspicuously and seated herself in the last pew in the shadow of a pillar. She was heavily veiled and throughout the long ceremony she sat there, almost as motionless as the figure that lay under wreaths of flowers before the altar.

At the close of the ceremony, she slipped away again unnoticed, but of all the friends and acquaintances of Marlowe, even of his family who had listened to his last rites, this stranger woman showed the only real tears. They meant grief and loneliness and sincere affection.

When Mrs. Marlowe visited the grave the following day to see that the flowers had been arranged to her satisfaction, she found among them a modest little bunch of Parma violets, which had been received at the house; nor obviously were they meant for a funeral pile.

They were a corsage which had been worn over a woman's heart, that bled with sorrow.

Two days later, Marlowe's will was read. He had died practically penniless.

POVERTY

When Mrs. Marlowe learned that her husband had left no fortune—in fact, that she and Jane were almost penniless, she had hysterics for three hours and later a nervous collapse.

For weeks and weeks she lay in a darkened room, attended by a nurse.

It was Jane who bore the brunt of the change in the Marlowe fortunes. It was she who received the multitudinous bills. It was she who stalled off creditors. It was she who entertained the numerous callers who came with a word of condolence, but whose avid curiosity shone in their eyes.

The experience changed Jane a great deal. She became a woman almost overnight. She carried her young head high with a pride that would not stoop, in spite of the gossip and conjecture flying about town, and she squared her slim young shoulders to accept a burden which she knew instinctively she must bear.

And in her yellow eyes, blazed a hatred before which any one but Weston would have been uneasy.

For Jane knew what every one suspected, that Weston had cleverly robbed her father. Time after time, he had urged Marlowe to put his surplus capital into this and that enterprise. Always it had been the same story. The enterprise had failed and Weston had shrugged and apparently accepted his loss with the same good nature as Marlowe. But Weston had waxed rich while Marlowe, living on the scale he did, and supporting a clandestine establishment beside, had gone deeper and deeper into debt. Little by little he had sold to Weston, all unknown to his family and friends his interest in the Weston motors.

There was the affair Mrs. Sabin, too. A great deal had been lavished upon her, of which Weston was fully cognizant. At various times, Marlowe had made business trips to Europe and the Orient to represent the Weston motors. During his absence, Weston had been entrusted with the affairs of the family. Marlowe, gay, incontinent, trusting, a little over-gallant, had never asked for an accounting, either from his friend or Mrs. Sabin.

Jane learned of this last situation from Weston himself. He told her brutally one afternoon, in the library, when she had sent for him to straighten out a pressing financial problem.

If she had hated him before, she loathed him now with all the concentrated bitterness of what she had suffered in the preceding weeks, when her world had been turned upside down.

She faced him across the library table, quiet, calm and poised, but her yellow eyes blazed in her white

PACT DISCUSSED BY LONDON POST

Paper Urges Dominions to Approve Britain's Security Agreement

London, July 24 (Canadian Press Cable)—Discussing the Dominions and the Western European security pact.

The London Morning Post points out that Great Britain pledged herself to consult the Dominions on matters of foreign policy concerning them. The newspaper hopes, however, that as the one main object of the pact is the peace of the world, the Dominions will see their way to approve the Imperial policy.

None of the Dominions, the Post continues, is strong enough to protect its own commerce and boundaries and the Dominion can avoid the consequence of war if the Mother Country is attacked, therefore the best chance of security lies in such a European pact as will maintain the peace of Europe and the world.

"Let Canada, before she decides against our foreign policy, consider her position," says The Post.

"Were Great Britain destroyed as a world power could she stand alone, and, if not, is she willing to pay the price of

IMMIGRATION LAW CHANGES ARE ASKED

Ottawa, July 24.—Deputations of Armenians and Syrians who waited on W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration and Colonization, to-day and requested certain changes in the passport and entry regulations of their countrymen into Canada, were told the department could only carry out the laws as they were on the statute books.

They requested that there be a quota of 500 of their countrymen admitted to Canada annually, and that those entering be not required to have $250 in their possession.

The Syrian delegation felt the Canadian immigration law, placing them under the classification of Asiatics because they came from Asia Minor, was a discrimination and tended to create an impression that they were of a yellow race.

It was stated by immigration officials that the Syrian Minor grouping was purely geographical.

SAANICH EFFORTS TOWARDS LONG TERM WATER SUPPLY EXPLAINED BY MACNICOL

Gordon Head Irrigationists Question Legality of Increased Charges; Ex-Reeve Watson Meets Strictures on Waterworks; Mayor Pendray Delayed Negotiations; Saanich Hopeful of Better Prices Reeve Asserts.

A representative meeting of Gordon Head irrigationists last night at Tyndal Avenue Hall protested against the increase in water charges from 10 cents per 1,000 gallons to 15 cents, and the action of the Saanich Council in making the increase retroactive to May 15.

C. F. Dawson acted as chairman, and in opening the meeting declared that although Victoria had increased the basic charge on June 1, the assent of the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council to the bylaw legalizing the increase had only been given on July 15 and he believed the retroactive increase to be illegal.

W. Tucker protested against the increase being levied only east of Cook Street, while Lieut.-Col. Scroggie of Cook Street, asked for an explanation from Reeve Macnicol as to the reasons why no effort had been made by the Saanich Council, to meet the Victoria Council and debate the question of an increase. He had reliable information to the effect that no such far-reaching effort had been attempted, and that an effort for better terms would have been successful.

SEES AUDACITY

"I cannot see how the Saanich Council can have the audacity to render bills for two months' water consumption when only legally empowered to charge for five days," he asserted. Colonel Scroggie asked for specific answers to a number of pointed queries, ranging from Victoria-Saanich terms to the profits earned by and in prospect for the system.

REGULAR ROUTINE

Reeve Macnicol stated that as Saanich employs only one meter reader, a system of bi-monthly readings was compulsory. The ordinary routine had resulted in Gordon Head being visited after the new became effective, that being the only district paying increased charges for the past two months, a point of which Col. Scroggie had complained.

Interviews and negotiations regarding a new water agreement with the Victoria Council had been in progress as early as March 11, and weekly thereafter Reeve Macnicol had endeavored to get Mayor Pendray to call an agreed joint meeting, but without avail and on May 22 the City Council had notified Saanich of the ten cent charge.

Reeve Macnicol outlined steps taken by him towards securing an alternative supply of water at lower prices, and declared "impossible," the City Council proposal for a three-cent rebate if Saanich extends a large main to Elk Lake.

FIVE YEARS TOO SHORT

He believed the city would accept an offer of eight cents per 1,000 on a five-year contract, but pointed out such a "patched-up contract" would leave matters in the same condition when that agreement expired. "You must look ahead, the water question is not too important to negotiate on a twenty-year basis."

"There is not a man in this room who can point out where the meter reader has, in any way, altered his route, thereby causing undue discrimination. If we could, by any means, have read all meters on August 1, there would have been no cause for complaint, but such an action is impossible," he said.

VAST INCREASE

"The June consumption jumped from 27,000,000 gallons last year to 50,000,000 gallons, and the Council was naturally alarmed somewhat at the prospect of a heavy loss," the Reeve pointed out, when urging the need of immediate increase.

The increase of five cents, while cost had only advanced four cents, was required to cover wastage, and Reeve Macnicol invited suggestions as to the manner any deficit should be met, declaring "The consumers must meet any loss, it certainly cannot be saddled on the general ratepayers of all Saanich."

FRONTAGE NOT ENOUGH

From the floor the statement was made that Gordon Head property owners were paying for the installation serving the area by means of water frontage. Reeve Macnicol retorted "I'll just show that you do not," and declared "frontage levies, to amount to about $3,000 do not cover the whole of the debenture interest as was believed. The amount spent on the Gordon Head system was about $120,000, the debenture charges totaling $9,650 and continuing until 1931."

EXPECTS REDUCTION

Replying to A. Francis, the Reeve was confident the heavy charges would not be continued, and would not have been increased, but for the prospect of a loss of almost $10,000 during the summer months, he was hopeful of an early reduction.

FAULTY DESIGN

Replying to questions regarding the efficiency of the Gordon Head extension, the Reeve quoted Engineer Milne's report, made in 1920, advising 12-inch mains from the city intake along Cloverdale. "This was not done," he said, showing that 2,200 feet of eight-inch main on Cloverdale discharge into two twelve-inch mains. "Now how in the world can you expect continued pressure in Gordon Head when such conditions exist? If an engineer had supervised the installation of your system such a condition would never have been allowed," he remarked amid queries as to the authority controlling the installation.

The Reeve believed at least five or six thousand dollars would be necessary to remedy the Cloverdale situation.

IRRIGATION NON-PAYING

At the suggestion of ex-Councillor W. Somers, Reeve Macnicol pointed out that "the small consumers are the backbone of the water system; there is no profit in the water sold for irrigation, even at the advanced rates. The small users are paying fifteen cents additional monthly, year in and out, while the irrigationists get the benefit of the installation and water during four months of the year." The Reeve refused to discuss the legality of charging for water sold prior to the Government's assent.

NOT SATISFIED

Col. Scroggie declared that the Reeve had not met charges of lack of diligence in endeavoring to meet the City Council of Victoria. The assertion that the meter reader had not changed his routine was not satisfactory, in view of the billing of other districts at the old rate, while Gordon Head users paid the advanced charges. "We want a refund, and we want it in cash, too," he said, advising the council to approach Victoria for a better rate. "Even at this late date, I have good reason to believe better terms may be obtained."

"In the most friendly manner we would point out that we look to the council, at those in authority, for action in our interest, an action in regard to better terms which we believe was not prosecuted with due diligence," he said.

DOMESTIC SERVICE

J. Townsend recalled that when the extension was appealed for by Gordon Head residents, domestic needs were urged, and Engineer Milne warned the ratepayers of the impracticability of irrigation on any scale.

RETALIATION ADVISED

Thomas Walker advised the Saanich Council to take steps to collect taxes upon Elk Lake, and was assured by the Reeve that "if the city continues to hold us up, we are certainly going to retaliate."

ALL WERE ASLEEP

Ex-Reeve G. F. Watson declared "the trouble is, the council, like the foolish virgins, all slumbered and slept." He pointed out that sixteen months of office had been allowed to elapse without action towards renewal of the water agreement with Victoria.

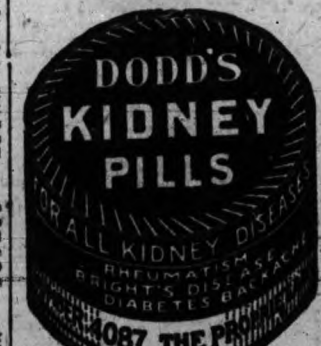

"In this hall, at the last elections, it was stated that a waterworks profit of $4,000 was made; if this was correct why charge five cents increase when the city only raises prices four cents?" he asked.

Chairman Dawson pointed out that this profit had permitted abolition of metre rates. Mr. Watson then recalled that engineering advice to leave mains "could" not be followed, because of the reduction in the amount of the money asked under the revised by-law. Further, the pressure could not be maintained until a reservoir is constructed on Christmas Hill, a point well known to Gordon Head residents. "We put in the best system we could for the money we had," he said, declaring the service better than expected.

Mr. Watson caused surprise by asserting that, when the installation was made, it was understood that the Gordon Head extension could not pay for itself before nine years had elapsed from construction.

W. Tucker moved, and A. Henry seconded, a motion asking the council to secure legal advice on its power to charge advanced prices for water used prior to July 15. Col. Scroggie opposed the resolution on grounds that the matter was one for the council to decide, as a matter of fact, not of law. He was supported by J. Townsend, but the resolution carried with only three dissenting votes.

Councillors Vantreigh, Kirkham and Graham were present at the meeting, but took no part in the discussions.
